INTERESTING FROM EUROPE.

THE COMING WAR.

GERMANY PERFECTING HER FIELD STRATEGY—IMPORTANCE OF LUXEMBOURG—HOW FRANCE MAY BE INVADED.

Paris (April 11) Correspondence of London Times.

It is remarked as significant that some of the German papers have already begun to discuss military operations, as if war were actually on the point of being declared between France and Prussia.

What has attracted the most attention in Paris is an article in the Gazette of North Germany, a Prussian ministerial paper. It says:—"In a war with France the German armies will have to operate on two principal points—Alsace and Lorraine, Belgium and the lower Rhine, separated by the hilly country between Moselle and the Meuse. In case of an offensive attack against the West or the upper and middle Rhine, it would be necessary to secure the important line of operations, Mayence, Kaiserslautern, and Metz, which leads into the valley of the Maine. This line passes through a network of numerous French fortresses, of which the most important is Metz, a place of the first rank, and yet of slight importance, if Luxembourg, distant seven miles from it, is in our hands, and keeps it in check. The holder of Luxembourg is master of the valley of the Sarre, which is only closed by Sarrelouis; but this valley cuts at right angles the line of operations already mentioned of an army entering from the middle Rhine into Champagne. If, on the other hand, Luxembourg is a French fortress, it is, especially in concert with Metz, a danger for the lines of communication of that army, and, moreover, it would force it to weaken itself considerably by detachments for investing. A Prussian Luxembourg would then be for us a necessity; a French Luxembourg would menace our lines of communication on the right flank. The possession of Luxembourg by the French would also be a danger for the left flank of a German army advancing from the lower Rhine into Belgium.

Four lines of railroad, of which the point of juncture is Luxembourg, give to that fortress a special importance by reason of the facilities afforded by railroad in actual warfare. These lines are:—1. Nancy, Metz, Luxembourg; 2. Luxembourg, Namur, Brussels; 3. Luxembourg, Spa, Liege; 4. Mayence, Sarrebruck, Sarrelouis, Treves, Luxembourg. The first two run parallel to the French frontier, touch several fortified places, and are in direct communication with the central point, Paris, as well as with the south and north of the country. The strategy of the French army would be greatly favored by this railroad parallel to the frontier, and its displacement at will, from the south to the north, and vice versa, would be easy. The Luxembourg-Liege line runs parallel to the Prussian frontier, on the Belgo-Luxembourg line connects the valleys of the Moselle and the Meuse by the shortest way, and cuts the Cologne-Liege-Brussels line near Verviers. To Luxembourg and the junction point of these three lines must be attached, in a French point of view, great importance. Fourthly, the important network connecting the valleys of the Rhine, the Nahe, the Sarre, and the Moselle debouches on Luxembourg, and on it is the only line of communication by rail of the theatre of war in Lorraine and Belgium. It is of capital importance for the Germans. The great importance of this place for us would be increased by the completion of the projected line, Treves-Cologne and Treves-Coblentz, by which Luxembourg could be put in direct communication with the strongest places on the banks of the Rhine, and serve as an advanced post. Thus the question relative to a fortress so well suited both for attack and defense should be the object of serious examination.

SKETCHING THE RUINS.

A SCOTCH HISTORIAN ON THE EFFECTS OF THE CONFLICT.

On the occasion of the opening of a volunteer drill hall at Glasgow, a couple of weeks since, Sir Archibald Alison spoke at some length on the subject of England's national armaments.

Referring to the present state of matters abroad, he said:—Europe, in Mr. Disraeli's words, has become a "great camp," and this very day the French funds have sunk two and a half per cent. from the rumors of an approaching rupture. Now, this is the state of affairs when the volunteer question comes forward; and in common with the whole empire we have to reflect on the present alarming state of public affairs, and the way in which we can best escape their disastrous effects. Everything depends on the right way of doing this. Every day you year the continual "I hope to God we may keep out of it. Let the continental powers fight out their own battle without our interference." All right, gentlemen, if you are sure that it will keep out of us. But will it do that? Rely upon it, it will not. A dreadful war is about to commence on the Continent, which will, to all appearance, terminate in the undisputed supremacy of one power. What such power will be, whether Russia, Germany, or France, as yet lies buried in the womb of time; but of one thing we may be well assured, that whichever gains on the Continent will ere long turn its victorious arms against us. The simple enthusiasts who think that commercial interests will govern the earth and arrest the arms of conquest, will then find how miserably they have been mistaken; and power won by the sword will never cease to make use of the sword for its extension. Look at Rome in ancient, and France under the first Napoleon, in modern times. The power victorious on the Continent will, beyond all question, turn its arms against this country, the only remaining check on its ambition. Besides their natural and unavoidable inclination, all the great powers of Europe have wrongs to avenge, inflicted on them by Britain in former times, and which they will willingly seize the first opportunity of requiting. We have paid two visits to France within four centuries, and have occupied Paris, and her sons would gladly return the compliment to London. We have made long a visit to Russia at Sebastopol, and she will always feel awkward till she has returned it to us at Portsmouth. Our victorious arms have been seen at Washington; and the Americans are only waiting for "England's difficulty" to let their standard be seen in London. Contemplating, then, as likely, I may say almost certain, such a coalition against us at no very distant period, what we have to consider is what means have we to resist it? And here an observation of the utmost imoptiance occurs, to which, gentlemen, I earnestly request your particular attention. It is, that the application of iron to the plating of vessels, and casing all ships of war in armor which is impervious save to two hundred or three hundred pounders, has not only made a change in the art of naval war, but has, at one blow, deprived us, so far as available ships go, of our naval superiority. Three Trafalgars won by the French or Russians, the Germans or Americans, could not do this as effectually as the iron vessels have done. Our great wooden fleet, so long the pride of Britain, the terror of the world lies stored up in Portsmouth harbor, of no earthly use in maintaining any maritime contest. These noble three-deckers, such as the Duke of Wellington, would be brought to the bottom by a single gun carrying a three hundred pound ball. We have at one blow virtually lost the fleet which had been growing up for two hundred years. For the construction of a new fleet of iron-clads we must wait for time and money, just as all the other powers must do. We have lost our start in the race; we must all set off anew and abreast. This is the real secret of the vast sums voted annually for the navy, and the general complaint that we have so little to show for them. We have been laying the foundations of a fleet which can be as yet only in its infancy. Other nations are just as far on as we are. It is doubtful whether our Royal navy as yet equals that of America. United to that of Russia, the latter is decidedly superior to anything we could bring forward. If a forest of hostile iron-clads appear off Spithead or Plymouth, vain will be the forty or fifty noble sail of the line lying in our harbors. Everything will depend, not on the fifty old wooden line-of-battle ships, but on the eight or ten fine iron-clads. This great change has entirely altered our relative position in any future naval war; and unless steps are taken, and that speedily, to counterbalance its effects, it may safely be predicted that evil days are coming upon us, and that the days of our national independence are numbered.

THE ODD FELLOWS OF NEW YORK.

GRAND THANKSGIVING CELEBRATION AT THE COOPER INSTITUTE.

The members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in this city assembled last evening in the great hall of the Cooper Institute, for the purpose of participating in a grand thanksgiving celebration in honor of the unbroken union of the Brotherhood, notwithstanding the late war, and the prosperity of the organization in every section of the country. The audience, who occupied every seat and inch of standing room in the building, included a large number of ladies, and the proceedings throughout were of a festive and spirited character. The exercises were enlivened by music, and appropriate songs by a quartette club.

Past Grand Sire John A. Kennedy presided, and the proceedings were commenced with an opening ode (to the air of Sicilian Mariners), beginning:—

Brethren of our friendly Order,
Honor here asserts her sway;
All within our sacred border
Must her high commands obey.
Join, Odd Fellowship of brothers,
In the song of Truth and Love;
Leave disputes and strife to others,
We in harmony must move.

Prayer was then offered by the Past Grand Chaplain of the Order, the Rev. Robert Travis, who besought the blessing of the Almighty on the fraternal work of the organization.

After the anthem by the choir, the oration of the evening was delivered by G. S. Harris, D. D. He prefaced his remarks by referring to the noble objects of the Order and its influences in promoting the common brotherhood of man. He said men needed the aid and the encouragement which the Order was designed to give; and there was a common tie of fraternity running through all ranks of the human family. Strip the man of wealth, of his riches, or of the insignia and baubles of power, and they found him merely a man. Deprive the beggar of his tattered garments, and they beheld a man. Even the unfortunate who, perhaps, plunged the dagger in a brother's breast on a lonely road at night, despite his supplications and prayers, was a man—base and wicked, but a man; and perhaps if any one of the audience before him were in the same circumstances, they might have become a robber by the wayside. Orphanage, friendless youth, poverty, and other misfortunes, trained and led him to commit the deed. Thus they saw a connecting link between man and his position, and the changes to which he was subject showed the necessity of their organization to help and elevate every brother. In closing, the speaker congratulated the Order that its members, despite the dividing influences of the late war, were an even section of the community. (Applause.)

The Quartette Club then sung an appropriate ballad, after which Brother Philip H. Bowne delivered a poetic address, entitled "Tastes Differ."

The choir concluded the exercises by singing a Thanksgiving Hymn, the first stanza being:—

Again with thankful hearts we meet,
Our vows anew to pay,
Our friends and brothers here to greet
On our Thanksgiving Day.

All present here joined in the Doxology, and they were subsequently dismissed with the Benediction by the Chaplain.—New York World.

OBITUARY.

M. Abel Francois Villemain.

The French papers announce the recent death of Abel Francois Villemain, the celebrated historian and Senator of France. In his early youth he greatly distinguished himself by his talent, and before he had attained the age of twenty years was promoted to a professorship of rhetoric. Soon after he won the Academy prize for a eulogy on Montaigne, and afterwards won a similar prize for an essay on criticism. Upon the second restoration of the Bourbons he was made Professor of Eloquence to the Faculty of Letters and Master of Requests to the Council of State. In 1827 he retired from office, being opposed to the Government, and remained in private life until 1830, when he was elected a Deputy. In 1832 he was made a peer of France, and from 1839 to 1844 was Minister of Public Instruction. After the coup d'etat of 1852 he retired again to privacy, but, notwithstanding their difference in political opinions, the Emperor appointed him a member of the Senate. He seldom, however, took part in the debates, but he devoted his time almost wholly to literature. M. Villemain was seventy-five years of age at the time of his death.

Sir Thomas Wilkinson.

In the London papers of a recent date the death is announced of Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Thomas Wilkinson, of the Bengal army. The deceased was a native of England, and was born in 1795. He received his education at Appleby School, Westmoreland, and in 1811 became a cadet of cavalry in the Bengal army. He greatly distinguished himself in the various engagements in India, and after passing through subaltern grades was, in 1854, promoted to a lieutenant-colonelship. He was present with his regiment (the Bengal cavalry) at the battle of Nagpore in 1817, the battle of Sonee in 1818, at the battle of Chundah in 1818, and at the affair of Wurrora in the same year. In that year he was in several affairs with the Nagpore Horse, and at the capture of the small fort of Complah. From 1819 to 1830 he was in civil employment at Nagpore, and during the following nine years was in civil and military employment on the southwest frontier. He retired in 1844, and received the honor of knighthood in 1866.

Death of an Eminent Naturalist.

The English papers announce the death of a distinguished naturalist, John Prideaux Selby, of Twizell House, Northumberland, aged eighty-seven years. Mr. Selby's name is familiar to British naturalists as the author of an excellent work, in two volumes, upon British birds, illustrated by colored folio plates, which continued to be the standard book of reference until the appearance of the late Mr. Yarrell's volumes on the same subject. Mr. Selby was also the author of a book on British forest trees, and contributed the volume on pigeons to the "Naturalist's Library," edited by Sir W. Jardine. Mr. Selby's name is also associated with that of Sir William as joint editor of three volumes of "Illustrations of Ornithology," in which many species of birds from all parts of the world are figured for the first time; and he was for many years a prominent and active member of the Berwickshire Naturalists' Field Club.

The Southern Methodist Church.

The Richmond Advocate publishes a letter from Bishop Doggett, who has been attending a council of the Bishops of the Southern Methodist Church. It communicates the following official announcement of the result of the late votes in the connection on the subjects of lay delegation and Church name:—

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

The following is an extract from the Journal of the College of Bishops:—

"On Tuesday, April 16, the Book Editor, at the request of the Bishops, joined them in gathering, verifying, and casting up the votes of the Annual Conferences on the two questions—change of name and lay representation—submitted by the late General Conference.

"Whereupon it appeared that returns had been received from all the Annual Conferences, with the following result:—

"On Change of Name, 1577 votes have been cast—yeas, 1168; nays, 409. The affirmative vote being less than the required three-fourths, this question was pronounced lost.

"On Lay Representation, 1570 votes have been cast—yeas, 1199; nays, 371. The affirmative vote being the required three-fourths of the whole, this question was pronounced carried."

THE PRINCE IMPERIAL OF FRANCE.—The reports as to the health of the Prince Imperial, who is under the care of MM. Nélaton and Barthez, are conflicting. Great anxiety is entertained at Court in consequence of the successive breaking out of two large abscesses, the development of which would seem to have been favored by some constitutional condition, and to betoken the probable existence of a diseased state of the thigh bone.

JAMAICA.

EXEMPTIONS FROM TONNAGE DUES—THE SUGAR CROP—MAIL ARRANGEMENTS.

Advices from Jamaica via Havana, to the 10th instant, give details of a new tonnage act which has just passed the Legislature of that island. The following exemptions from tonnage dues are made under the act:—

1. All steam vessels trading to, or in or about the island.
2. All vessels laden only with ice or fresh fruit, poultry, fresh fish, and fresh butter.
3. All vessels laden only with coals.
4. All vessels which shall neither receive nor discharge cargo, but shall only land passengers and their luggage and stores, or call in for orders.
5. All vessels in distress putting into any of the ports of the Island for the purpose of repairs, and such vessels shall not be liable to the stamp duty on Governor's warrant for the sale of cargo on board of such vessel for the purpose of defraying the cost of such repairs.
6. All vessels arriving in ballast.
7. Vessels exempted on entry, pay half tonnage dues when they clear with dye woods or bamboo.

The estimated deficiency in the sugar crop of the island this year, owing to the severe and protracted drought, is one-third—equal to about 12,000 hogsheads.

The Legislature of British Honduras has just voted £7000 as a subsidy for a monthly mail by steamer between Belize and Havana, and thence to Jamaica, returning by the same route.

THE MURDER OF GENERAL BAILEY.

A PROBABLE CLUE TO THE ASSASSINS—THEY ARE SUPPOSED TO BE ON THEIR WAY TO CANADA.

A correspondent of the Detroit Free Press, writing from Edwardsburg, Michigan, April 19, states that two men, representing in every particular the murderers, passed through or near Edwardsburg on the 6th inst., ten days after the murder. The correspondent continues:—I was stopping at the farm-house of Samuel Ruple, eight miles northeast of Mishawakee, on the back neighborhood road, running from the last named place in a northeasterly direction. Just before 8 o'clock two men came in and asked for something to eat, saying they were out of money, etc. Mrs. Ruple set on some victuals, and they ate four times as much as any two men ought to consume at one meal. They were the most desperate looking fellows I ever saw, and as soon as they came in, I was fully impressed that they were fugitives from justice, and "photographed" them in every particular, even to their clothing, boots, etc. They spoke but little, only to answer questions, and their answers were confused and mixed. The smallest man asked "if there were any little towns near," and said they were "going to Chicago." The largest man asked if "this was Michigan." The men were on foot, no satchel or bundle of any kind. The evening was very dark, the road by Mr. Ruple's running nearly east and west. The next morning I went out, and found, by their tracks, that they came from the west, and continued on east, or rather northeast, for half a mile above the road took that direction. From what I got out of them I think they were heading for Canada. I am sure they will yet be caught. No person can once see them without "spotting" them as "bushwackers."

LATER FROM MEXICO.

IMPORTANT RUMOR — REPORTED CAPTURE OF PUEBLA BY THE IMPERIALISTS.

The Spanish steamer which left Vera Cruz on the 16th instant, three days laten than our last intelligence, has arrived at Havana, and reported that Puebla had been retaken by the Imperialist forces. Food was plentiful at Vera Cruz when the steamer left, and the former reports of a scarcity were declared to be exaggerations.

Japan—Visit of the Tycoon's Brother to Europe.

The Japan Herald, of February 26, published at Yokonama, contains the following interesting announcement:—

"An event of much interest has been the departure of the Tycoon's brother for Europe. His name is Yokugawa Mimbu-tai Dono (the last word being a title of nobility). He is a young man, about twenty-one years of age, apparently very energetic and intelligent, and said to have a great passion for foreign travelling. He has been selected to represent Japan at the approaching Paris Exhibition. It is his intention to visit England and other countries, and to prolong his stay in Europe for a considerable time. He has taken a numerous suite with him, and is accompanied by Mukoyama, a commissioner of foreign affairs, who will act as his Menter. We have heard him accused by some of his compatriots as being already too much inclined to despise the manners and ways of his own country, and too partial to those of foreigners. If this be so, he will doubtless return a very polished and enlightened man, whose experience, as we formerly expressed it, 'will act as a leaven among his stay-at-home compatriots' who have the means to travel."

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

COURT OF QUARTER SESSIONS—Judge Brewster.—Daniel Rosenwig was heard on habeas corpus, on a charge of larceny. The prosecutor testified that he went into a shoe store up town, and was waited upon by a lady. He found a shoe that fitted his foot, and paid the woman $4, thinking she would get the other one for him. But she would not get the other one, and refused to refund the money, she saying that a bargain had been made. But there was nothing said concerning Mr. Rosenwig, and no criminal case against the woman, the true remedy in such a case being in a civil suit; and, therefore, both parties were discharged.

Some time ago a German was convicted of a charge of assault and battery upon an old man, and he was sentenced to one month in the County Prison. This was at the beginning of the term. This morning testimony was offered to induce the Court to reconsider the sentence, at the conclusion of which his honor took occasion to say, that unless the prisoner was about to die, or in some unusual distress from imprisonment, there should never be an application made for the reconsideration of a sentence—that during the trial was the right time for the offering of such evidence. He had perfectly agreed with the jury in their verdict at its rendition, and thought the man deserved imprisonment. Since sentence had been passed, the Judge had been besieged by the friends and relatives of the prisoner, both at Court and at home. This the Judge condemned, saying persons should remember that they violate the law when they address a Judge in private on such a subject, and their letters to him upon any such subject should be filed, in order that the opposite party should see them.

The application was refused.

John R. Hill, a conductor on one of the Lombard street cars, convicted of a charge of assault and battery upon a passenger in his car, was ordered to pay a fine of $5.

His Honor Judge Allison came into Court, and, before the Court of Oyer and Terminer, the following prisoners were arraigned:—Thomas Barker, for the murder of William Johnson. A plea of not guilty was entered.

Thomas Leis, for the murder of George Eller, in the Court of Quarter Sessions, on the 26th of February. A plea of not guilty was entered.

In the matter of an application made several weeks ago for the custody of an Italian boy, the Court this morning decided to take the child from the custody of both relator and respondent, because of the education they are giving him by sending him about the streets and into drinking saloons to beg and play music for money, and to take the child into the custody of the Court, and commit him to the care of some of our excellent public institutions.

In the matter of the Commonwealth vs. Alsop & Waters, in which a motion in arrest of judgment was argued principally upon the statute of limitations, Judge Brewster delivered an able opinion, deciding that the statute merely meant that an indictment should be found within two years after the alleged commission of a misdemeanor or felony, with the exception of perjury, and not that the accusation should be prosecuted to conviction and final sentence.

The other points in the argument were principally as to the informality of the proceedings, which were passed upon at the argument of the demurrer, and as to the evidence, which was decided during the trial. After going over each particular point at some length, and citing many authorities in support of the views advanced, the Judge overruled the motion.

—A malicious joke was recently played in Paris upon three actors who were supposed to be drinking champagne in an inn. The property man put a gentle emetic into the bottle, and the actors were obliged to go off before the scene was concluded.

A Peace Rumor and its Effects.

Effect of a Denial of the Same.

PARIS, April 26—Evening.—The rumor of the convening of a Peace Congress, which prevailed to-day, had the effect of raising Rentes 1 franc. After business hours, however, the report was discredited, and Rentes slightly declined. United States 5-20 bonds are quoted at 77⅞.

FROM WASHINGTON THIS P. M.

[SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO EVENING TELEGRAPH.]

WASHINGTON, April 27.

The Japanese Embassy.

The Japanese Embassy, consisting of eight persons, two of whom are special commissioners, accredited to this Government by the Tycoon of Japan, arrived here last night, in a special car, in charge of Special Commissioner R. S. Chilton, of the State Department, and were escorted to the quarters prepared for them by the Government at Wormsley's Club House. The Embassy is accompanied by Colonel George S. Fisher, late a United States Consul in Japan, who will remain with them during their stay in Washington and accompany them in their travels through this country. They will not be presented to the President until Monday, by which time Secretary Seward is expected to return. On the occasion of their presentation, they will hand to the Secretary of State their official despatches from the Tycoon of Japan, accompanied by a translation of the same. The members of the Embassy are not regarded by those who saw them this evening as fine a looking body of men as those who visited Washington several years ago, though in intellect and ability they are represented as being greatly their superiors. While no such display is contemplated now as was made on the occasion of the first official visit of Japanese, the Government at the same time intends affording them every facility in fulfilling the object of their mission. They, of course, have had no time to see the attractions of Washington, but on their way from the depot to their quarters they expressed unbounded admiration for the gigantic pile of marble of the capitol. They had never seen any marble until they visited this country.

Vacant Post Offices.

The following is a correct list of the Post Offices left unfilled at the last session of the Senate:—New York—Newburg; Pennsylvania—Milton and Newcastle; Ohio—Finlay and Van Wert; Indiana—Bloomington and Jeffersonville; Michigan—Tecumseh and Owasso; Illinois—Litchfield, Parra, Champaign, and Jerseyville; total 14. There may be one or two more to be added to this list, as there are some whose status is not yet determined.

These cases will be taken up next week, and disposed of in the manner heretofore indicated, viz., by the assignment of special agents to the charge of each Post Office. This proceeding is regarded by the President and Cabinet as coming within the spirit, if not the letter, of the laws under which special agents of the department are appointed and their duties defined.

Importation of Wheat.

Official advices have been received at the Treasury Department which indicate rather a remarkable state of things regarding the grain trade between this country and England, viz.:—The shipment of no less than 40,000 bushels of wheat from Liverpool to New York. The two steamers of the Inman line, which left Liverpool on the 6th and 9th inst., brought 8300 bushels. The City of Baltimore, which arrived at New York on Wednesday, brought 10,000 bushels. The steamship Queen, of the National Navigation Line, which left Liverpool on the 10th, also took 22,291 bushels as part of her cargo. These five steamers sailed within seven days. This state of things naturally attracts much attention.

The Bankrupt Law.

It may be stated, for the information of those who are interested in the Bankrupt law, that the rules and forms which are being arranged are not, as stated in some of the papers yesterday, in the hands of the printer. On the contrary, but a very few of the forms are with the printer, and none of the rules or other matter. The commission appointed for the purpose of settling the executive details of the act, are diligently engaged in considering the many important suggestions made by leading members of the bar throughout the country, and it will be several weeks before their report will be in readiness for the Supreme Court to pass upon—probably not before the latter part of May. This done, the rules and regulations will be printed, in accordance with the resolution of the Senate.

Ice in the Streets—The Fire Yesterday—Losses, Etc.

[SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO EVENING TELEGRAPH.]

INDIANAPOLIS, April 27.—There was an extensive fire here yesterday, which destroyed the greater portion of the Madison Depot and a row of six houses on Pennsylvania street. Madison was the first railroad depot built in this city. The total loss is about $20,000. Total insurance on all of the property destroyed $1400.

Ice was formed in the streets here this morning. Weather clear and cool.

MASSACHUSETTS.

DEFEAT OF THE PROHIBITION PARTY IN THE LEGISLATURE—CHARLES ALLEN ELECTED ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

BOSTON, April 26.—The License party achieved a triumph in the Legislature this afternoon, in the election of Charles Allen for Attorney-General. The principal opposing candidate was R. C. Pitman, of New Bedford, a strong prohibitionist. Mr. Allen was elected on the second ballot, having received 137 votes to 117 for Pitman, and 4 scattering. It is believed that a license law could be enacted in this State if its friends would rally.

Gas Explosion at Boston.

BOSTON, April 27.—Last night a fire originated in an ash barrel placed under a gas meter in the large building at the corner of State and Congress streets, which melted the pipe, causing a heavy explosion of gas. Many windows were shattered, partitions broken down, and other damage done in the interior of the building. The New England Life Insurance Company own and occupy the premises, together with the Webster Bank and numerous other occupants.

In Epirus the Mussulmen are more numerous. There are 41,012 Christian families, 36,341 Mussulman, and 503 Jewish.

Saturday, April 27, 1867.

The Stock Market opened rather dull this morning, but prices were firmer. In Government bonds there was no material change to notice. July, 1865, 5-20s sold at 107⅛, no change; 98⅝ was bid for 10-40s; 109⅝ for 1862 5-20s; 109½ for 6s of 1881; and 105½@106 for June and August 7·30s. City loans were in fair demand, the new issue sold at 102, an advance of ¼; and old do. at 96¼, no change.

Railroad shares continue the most active on the list. About 3300 shares of Reading sold at from 51·44@51·56, mostly at 51½, an advance of ¼ on the closing price of last evening; and Pennsylvania Railroad at 58, no change. 130½ was bid for Camden and Amboy; 29 for Little Schuylkill; 61 for Norristown; 33 for North Pennsylvania; 56¾ for Lehigh Valley; 29 for Elmira common; 40 for preferred do.; 13 for Catawissa common; 28½ for preferred do.; 28½ for Philadelphia and Erie; and 44 for Northern Central.

In City Passenger Railroad shares there was little or nothing doing. 64 was bid for Tenth and Eleventh; 19½ for Thirteenth and Fifteenth; and 13½ for Hestonville.

Canal shares were firmly held. 21½ was bid for Schuylkill Navigation common; 31 for preferred do.; 53 for Lehigh Navigation; 15½ for Susquehanna Canal; and 56½ for Delaware Division.

Bank shares were in good demand for investment at full prices. Drunken Senators.

From the Independent.

Nascitur, non fit, is as true of the members of the upper house of the British Parliament as it is of poets. The peers of Great Britain are born legislators. Now and then one is made, it is true; but not until he has first given evidence of his having also been born for the station. It sometimes happens, too, that there are foolish peers and worthless peers; but then, noblesse oblige, and the fools and knaves do not find it convenient to attempt to exercise their inherited function as legislators. The House of Lords is always eminently decorous and dignified, let it be what else it may. Its members well understand that, if they did not maintain their dignity, their order would not long be maintained. Our national Senate is modelled on the House of Lords, except that its members are not hereditary, nor elected for life; but they are chosen by the highest legislative authorities of the States, their terms of office are three times longer than those of the members of the lower House, and they are as far removed from popular influences as may be possible in a representative government. If dignity of character and decorous department can be looked for anywhere, surely it ought to be in the Senate of the United States. It is the last place in the whole world where common drunkards and boisterous ruffians should be found or tolerated. The Senate is very properly made the sole judge of the fitness of its members to seats in its body. They may deny admission to whom they please and expel whom they please; and therefore the Senate is responsible for the conduct of its members. If they permit their chamber to be polluted by the presence of habitual drunkards and ruffians, who obstruct the public business and endanger the safety of the nation, they are to be held responsible to the nation, and must be regarded as particeps criminis. In the high and palmy days of the Democratic party, when Polk was President and the slavocracy had things all their own way, the State of Indiana chose to be represented in the Senate by a drunken ruffian, whose habits were a disgrace to civilization. The dominant party had no desire to expel him, and the other had no power. At the end of his term, Mr. Polk sent him to represent us at the Court of Berlin, where his conduct was so outrageously vile and indecent that he had to be recalled. He returned to Indiana; where, soon after, he murdered his brother-in law in a drunken brawl. It used to be said of this disgraceful wretch, by way of extenuation, as is usually said in other similar cases, that he was "a good fellow when he was sober;" and since he killed his brother-in-law we have seen reports of his reformation. We hope the reports are true; but; if the Senate had done its duty and expelled him when it could, that act might have not only sobered him and prevented the mischief which he afterwards was guilty of, but have prevented other Senators from disgracing the Senate Chamber by coming into it in a state of intoxication. It might, also, have saved us from the terrible disgrace which afterwards befell us when the President of that august body, the newly chosen Vice-President of the United States, appeared in his place to take his oath of office in a state of maudlin intoxication. During the past five years the Senate has been daily disgraced by the presence of two drunken members, whom no Senator had the moral courage to move the expulsion of. In the case of one of these Senators, whose term has just expired, it has been alleged that he was permitted to remain out of regard to his amiable wife and daughter, whose presence in the galleries, watching with anxious eyes the husband and father, touched the sympathies of Senators. "Wives and weans," as Burns says,

"Wad brak the very hearts of stanes."

and the weakness of Senators might be overbalanced by their feelings as men. But there was another sad example before them—a daily disgrace and a daily nuisance, as obtrusively drunken as a Toodles—whose outrage ought not to have been tolerated for an hour:—Saulsbury, of Delaware, who was re-elected at the end of his term, as if on purpose to defy and insult the Senate. At last Mr. Sumner, the most courageous man in the Senate, had the courage to move the expulsion of this drunken Senator; but his resolution has not been acted upon, in deference, it is said, to Mr. Saulsbury's wife, and a promise that he would resign. But he should not be permitted to resign. The character of the Senate is likely to undergo a great change before long, by the introduction of some rough elements. The gentlemen from Russian-America, the gentlemen from New Mexico, and the gentlemen from Lower California, to say nothing of the returning members from Texas, Arkansas, and Mississippi, will be likely to unsettle the decorous habits which have heretofore characterized the upper house of our national legislature. It behoves the Senate, therefore, while it has the power, to establish some safe precedent by which its decorum and dignity may be hereafter insured. Let it be understood, when a member comes to his desk intoxicated, that his expulsion will immediately follow, and there will be no more drunken Senators.

Women's Opinion of Themselves.

From the Independent.

An unprecedented activity of the public mind has lately arisen on the subject of Woman's work, wages, and franchise.

On our editorial table, at this moment, lie forty manuscripts—and many of them very able and interesting—all treating of these great questions, and all written by women. Some of these are replies to our esteemed contributor, Professor Tayler Lewis; which, out of compassion for that gentleman, we withhold from the public eye. Others are expressions of thanks to this journal for its advocacy of woman's suffrage; which, of course, our modesty forbids us to print. Others fly, like many arrows, to various marks.

Let us give specimens of the thoughts of these thinkers.

Marian Martin calls special attention to the fact that in some of the States "the law decides that a married woman cannot, by will, devise lands to her husband, because she is supposed to be under his coercion; therefore, the law takes no cognizance of deeds executed while in subjection to her husband: a most humiliating position for a woman—the law acting upon the assumption that she shall submit both to the tyranny of her husband and the tyranny of the law."

Mrs. Jessie M. House, of Chicago, says:—"The great field of labor which I would have opened to, and made honorable for women, is the labor of the household. It is a well-known fact that, while it is perfectly respectable for men to work for men, and for women to work in men's stores and offices, yet for woman to enter the homes of these same men and work for their wives is to degrade herself. Instead of being an honored assistant, she thereby becomes a servant—nothing more."

In a somewhat similar vein, "S. S." says:—"The American women have become such slaves to the Irish that we think we can hardly breathe without them; and certainly some of us know from experience that we can hardly breathe with them!"

Mrs. Erastus Blakeslee, of Plymouth, Conn., says:—"O fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters, do not prate to those you love about being wives; teach them to be true and noble women."

Mrs. R. S. Bates, of Kansas, writes:—"I have always believed that women had a right to vote; but I always thought it a question for the far-off future, until the death of my husband in the war left me to join the legion of those who (in the phrase of Professor Lewis) have taken a 'very unnatural departure from domesticity.'"

Grace Ashwood says:—"I know of several highly educated women who, by force of circumstances, are dressmakers; yet they do not feel degraded by their employment." (Which is because they are sensible women.)

"Brown," of Aurora, Ill. (but whether Mr., Mrs., or Miss Brown we know not), informs us that she (or he) knows of a woman who cleared fifteen thousand dollars in one year as an agent for the sale of popular books.

A correspondent to us writing from Nuremburg, Bavaria, mentions that "women in Southern Germany have access to many methods of making a livelihood to which American woman are as yet strangers."

"E. A. E." says to her sisterhood:—"You are not to be unmindful of personal comeliness. Every day you are to be as 'clean as a bride.' You are not to suffer the stain of sin upon your soul, of ignorance and error upon your mind, or of filth upon your person or garments. It is your duty to be as beautiful in person as, with the form and features God has given you, it is possible to be."

A factory girl complains that manual labor is looked upon by many educated women as degrading; but adds, justly, "work and education ought to go hand in hand in the American republic."

"H. M.," writing from Washington, says:—"To equalize the pay of the male and the female clerks in Washington would have an effect to better the condition of working women all over the country."

A correspondent at Lima, New York, informs us in glowing terms that Genessee College, at that place—an institution open, as all schools and colleges ought to be, on equal terms to both sexes—has had great success in this experiment ever since the adoption of the plan in 1849. "We owe it to the cause of universal education," says this writer, "to state that the presence of females in our classes has ever exercised a very marked influence on the young men, constituting an efficient agency in their culture, and counteracting the coarseness and boorishness into which young men are prone to fall during a quadrennium of separation from the refining influences of home. Contrary to all the à priori reasoning of monkish philosophers, the discipline of the college is not embarrassed, but greatly promoted, by the intermingling of the sexes in the same lecture-room. Experience demonstrates that three or four ladies in a recitation-room are better than so many paid proctors to promote good order. We no longer wonder that the righteous souls of college presidents are vexed with the ungodly deeds of young men, for years secluded from female society, in manifest violation of the law of the Creator, who places sons and daughters in the same family, to secure the symmetrical moral development of both."

Helen Downs, of Hartford, Conn., makes a vigorous protest against the use of the phrase "Universal Suffrage," until it shall cover the suffrage of women as well as of men.

"H. U.," of Chautauqua, N. Y., mentions the following incident:—"I once had a classmate, passionately fond of books, to whom a library would have been like a gift from the gods; and another whose passion was chemistry and natural philosophy, and her highest ambition the possession of a laboratory and its apparatus. Yet both have been able to earn only a scanty livelihood, and library and laboratory exist only in dream-land. The gentlemen of the class, however, with less ability, with less purity of life and earnestness of purpose, have risen to positions of affluence, which the former can never hope to attain."

Sarah R. Plummer, Washington, D. C., says that the majority of poor girls must either get married or else work at starvation prices.

"A Woman in Behalf of Women" has sent us two essays, giving reasons why her sisters should have the ballot; and cogent reasons they are, and altgether unanswerable.

A lady writing from Kansas murmurs at the scanty pittance eked out to female school teachers, "even in cases of first-class ability and aptitude."

"E. S. T." discusses "Women's Dress," and says that whenever a woman goes on a picnic her dress is generally so ill-suited to the occasion that "she loses at least one-third of her time in disengaging herself from roots and brambles, in which she is perpetually caught as in a trap." This writer puts to us the following question:—"Mr. Editor (this strictly between ourselves), will you impart to the writer in confidence, why gentlemen are so peculiarly sensitive on the subject of ladies' costume?" To which we respectfully reply that, on the subject of ladies' costume, gentlemen are generally less sensitive (and generally more sensible) than ladies themselves.

An anonymous correspondent writes:—"If exercising the right of suffrage, is in itself, the best school for man's political education, so will it be for woman's."

"H. M.," of the District of Columbia, holds that "the right of self-government belongs equally to all men and all women;" and she adds:—"It is in vain to attempt to elevate the sex by establishing female schools or colleges or gymnasiums; by inventing new styles of dress for women; or by any reforms that do not reach the root of the evil. The only efficient remedy is the ballot."

Now we have mentioned these manuscripts, and given these glimpses at their contents, to show how wide-spread is the spirit of inquiry on the subject of woman's industrial and political relations to society.

It is generally said that as soon as women ask for the elective franchise they will get it. Undoubtedly this is true. Hitherto women have not generally asked for it. Nor do a majority of women ask for it now. Nevertheless, the number who, both in England and America, are opening their eyes to the importance of an improved political status for their sex is daily increasing. We have repeatedly said in these columns that the next great public question in this country is the question of woman's enfranchisement. All the signs of the times point to an approaching national discussion of this subject. Already some of the States are changing their Constitutions into a recognition of the political equality of the sexes. The cause needs first a fair hearing, then a disentanglement from past prejudices, and then it will win a speedy victory.

The Reconstruction Act in Georgia.

From the Times.

Although General Pope's intimation to the Governor of Georgia wears an arbitrary aspect, and reveals one of the unpleasant characteristics of military government, it can scarcely be deemed unwarranted or unjust. Governor Jenkins has publicly exerted his official influence in opposition to the law. In his official capacity he has raised the issue of its constitutionality, and has advised the citizens of his State to disregard its requirements. Besides invoking the interference of the Supreme Court, he has counselled indifference to the law, whatever be the judicial decision in the case, alleging his preference for any course that would practically nullify the act, and necessitate the continuance of military rule.

We said the other day, commenting upon the proceedings of Governor Jenkins and other Southern officials who share his views, that they have misinterpreted the leniency of General Pope's administration of affairs. Of this fact, probably, they are now convinced. For the terms of the General's communication to the Governor sets forth very plainly the relation which the executive officers of a Southern State hold to the Military law. They are, as he says, simply provisional, exercising their authority only by sufferance, and with special reference to the work to be performed. In other words, the law has permitted them to retain their positions in order that, by becoming its agents, they may prevent needless disturbance of the local machinery of government. To use these positions, then, to defeat the law and postpone the business of reconstruction, is to abuse the forbearance of Congress and challenge the action of the Commanding General. His obligation is to apply the law which they are endeavoring to evade or annul. And he must either arrest their efforts or permit his own to be challenged in a manner prejudicial to his influence. His warning to Governor Jenkins therefore became a necessity, unless he were prepared silently to see obstacles created in the line of his duty. If he is, as the law declares, master of the situation, with specific ends to accomplish, he must be prepared to remove provisional officers who fail to accept the law or to respect its obvious intent.

General Sheridan, in the exercise of his discretion, removed the Rebel functionaries of Louisiana; and it will be not less incumbent on General Pope to remove the Executive of Georgia if that officer pervert his provisional power for purposes antagonistic to reconstruction. The right so to act cannot be questioned under the law, and we have the admissions of a local journal in the interest of the Governor that the notification given by the General is "wise and considerate." Its moderation should not be misconstrued, as the forbearance which preceded it evidently has been.

The case is adduced by the Express as proof that military government under the Reconstruction law allows "neither official freedom of speech, nor of the press, nor the right of petition, nor any manly act of opposition to a despotic law." Nothing of the sort is proved. "Official freedom of speech" is indeed circumscribed by the terms of Gen. Pope's letter to Gov. Jenkins, but not in a sense that implies harshness or despotism. Rightly or wrongly, the Governor as a "provisional" officer is subordinate to the Commanding General, and the latter is certainly not guilty of tyranny when he reminds the Governor that he must abstain from opposition to the law unless he be content to play the rôle of private citizen, in which capacity he may ezercise "freedom of speech" without molestation. As for the rest, the assertion of the Express is wholly at variance with fact. There has been no attempt on the part of Gen. Pepe, or any other district commander, to fetter the Press, or deny the right of petition, or to meddle with any other peaceful form of opposition to the legislation of Congress. The widest latitude of discussion has been afforded to both press and people, as might be easily shown by a reference to our Southern exchanges. A denial of the right of a "provisional" official to abuse his opportunities, ought not to be confounded with the right of private citizens to the freest expression of opinion on political subjects. The latter has been scrupulously respected in Georgia and throughout the South.

In truth, the only really arbitrary acts of which we have heard in connection with the administration of the Reconstruction law have occurred in South Carolina, where General Sickles has decreed certain restraints upon the privileges of creditors as against debtors. That act might seem to challenge criticism, because it affects very seriously private rights. But of this phase of tyranny we find no complaints among the people whom it most concerns. On the contrary, they applaud it as a wise and merciful interposition to stay the desolation of poverty. To them, at any rate, General Sickles' most despotic act conveys the idea of mercy.

The Approaching European War—Revolutions Impending.

From the Herald.

In another column will be found our latest cable despatches relating to affairs in Europe. The situation no longer hangs on the long prominent Eastern question. That question, though to all appearance as far from being settled and demanding solution loudly as ever, has yielded first place to that other and more stirring question now pending between France and Prussia. Our latest news, it must be admitted, does not encourage the hope that peace is to be maintained. Prussia has replied to the proposals made by the other great powers, and has reiterated her determination not to evacuate the fortress of Luxembourg. The excitement in consequence has increased, and war is considered all but certain. Little sparks can kindle great fires; and it appears as if the little spark of Luxembourg were destimed to set Europe ablaze.

We had hoped, for a time, that the voice of reason might prevail, and that war might be averted; but if we are to yield to the evidence now before us, that hope must be abandoned. It might have been possible to leave the Grand Duchy and Fortress of Luxembourg in the hands of the King of Holland as before, only proclaiming them neutral. Such an arrangement, while it would have satisfied France, could not materially have injured Prussia. It is now, however, no longer to be thought of. Prussia has set herself up as the defender of Germany, and, in the name of Germany and the German people, refuses to retire from a fortress which she declares to be German property. The question as between the two powers is thus reduced to the narrowest possible limits. Prussia will not yield. France must yield or fight.

Which of the two courses is France likely to adopt? Will she tamely submit, or will she draw the sword? No one who understands the temper and present feeling of the French people can have any difficulty as to the answer which ought to be given to this alternative. If Bismark remains obstinate, France will and must fight. There are, doubtless, many and weighty reasons why Napoleon should not wish, just at present, to undertake the responsibility and to encounter the risks of war. Another time certainly might be more convenient; and we may rest assured that war will not be proclaimed until the arts of diplomacy have been fairly and fully tried. But Napoleon has never been in the habit of consulting mere convenience when his own honor and the honor of France has been at stake. Directly, therefore, it becomes manifest that dishonor is inseparable from delay, he will "let slip the dogs of war." Nor will it be possible for him to do otherwise, even if he were willing. The blood of France is up. There is nothing of which a Frenchman is so proud as of the position which his country occupies among the nations of the earth. There is nothing which he so much dreads as that that proud position should be lost. On more than one occasion recently the French people have tasted the bitterness of humiliation. Prussia herself has already touched them on the sore and sensitive part. They have borne it, it is true, but they have borne it with impatience, and have never ceased to long for their opportunity. If, therefore, Napoleon, yielding to an extreme desire to preserve peace, were to remain passive under this fresh insult—a supposition in the last degree unlikely—their pent-up feeling of indignation would prove too much even for his restraining influence; they would burst, and, like a fierce torrent, would cast him aside or hurry him helplessly along with them. If, on the other hand, he flings himself on the people and asks their support, they will leap in obedience to his summons; all that is loveliest and noblest and best in the land will be consecrated to the cause; the stirring strains of the old Marseillaise will resound throughout all her borders, and France will be aroused as she has not been roused since those memorable days of the first republic, when she rose as one man and drove the invader from her soil. In this one thing Frenchmen of every class and of all shades of opinion will unite; and, if the Emperor will put himself at their head, he will broaden the foundations of his throne, and strengthen the hopes of his dynasty. Of this no one is more fully aware than the Emperor himself. It is impossible, therefore, to doubt the course he will follow.

Should war be proclaimed, it is impossible to predict what disastrous consequences may follow, or where or how it may end. The French iron-clads for certain will sweep the flag of Prussia from the sea. They will blockade her ports both in the Baltic Sea and German Ocean, and carry death and destruction along her entire seaboard. The blockade will be all but certain to beget serious difficulties with England, who will strive to make capital out of this war, as she has made out of so many others; and in a naval warfare of unparalleled magnitude the value of iron-clads will be permanently settled. Whether France or Prussia shall be ultimately victorious is a question of minor importance, in comparison with the other and more momentous questions to which it is certain the war will give birth. War is little likely to confine itself to France and Prussia. The contagion will spread. The hands of rulers being tied, democracy may awake to newness of life and sweep torrent-like over Europe, involving thrones and dynasties in general ruin. We shall not regret the chaos if a better and nobler Europe emerge from its bosom.

The Surratt Mystery.

From the Tribune.

A despatch from Washington to the Herald says:—

"It is the opinion of persons high in authority and influence here, that the trial of John H. Surratt will be ultimately abandoned. The impression is that there is a general conviction prevailing in official quarters that the unfortunate Mrs. Surratt was not guilty of the crime for which she was executed, and that the trial of her son would only result in more clearly establishing that fact. Such a development, of course, would not be relished by the Administration and others concerned in the trial and condemnation of the mother. There is another cause, however, not very creditable, assigned why the President would not wish the trial to occur; but, as it would cast a deep slur upon the reputation of one who lately has not been sleeping on a bed of roses, I refrain from giving it publicity. It might only be creating another sensation, and, perhaps, without justification, for the gratification of scandal-mongers. However this may be, it is not believed that the evidence in possession of the Government will warrant the trial of John H. Surratt."

—We think it time to say that the many mysteries surrounding this Surratt case should cease. Since the assassination of President Lincoln we have had endless surmises, and makeshifts, and tricks, in reference to the crime and those accused. In the first place, we had the Government proclamations accusing Davis, and Sanders, and Thompson of the assassination. Then we had the trials, in which these persons were solemnly arraigned as participants in that crime. There are few things that our children will less care to read than that self-same trial, with its wayward and rude justice. Then came the swift execution of Mrs. Surratt, although Payne, an assassin by his own confession, asserted her innocence. We had the escape of Surratt—his wanderings under Government espionage—the fact that it was known where he was, and no effort made to arrest him until Mr. Boutwell, speaking the public opinion of the nation, compelled his arrest. We have also had the imprisonment of Davis as an assassin—if there is any value in the judgment of the Commission that tried Payne and his companions. His continued imprisonment without trial, or the pretense of a trial, is in itself a mystery and a shame. Then came General Butler's famous speech, showing that the diary of Booth had been suppressed on the conspiracy trial, and the declaration of a great lawyer that Mrs. Surratt had been innocently hanged. Immediately came an announcement that the War Department would print the Booth diary so soon as something or other occurred. Well—time enough has passed for twenty things to happen, and nothing is heard of the Booth diary! Finally, we have the most provoking delays about the trial of Surratt, with an announcement that he is not to be tried because the trial might establish the fact that Mrs. Surratt was not guilty at all!

It is time that this juggling should cease; and especially as the Surratt case is only a part of the juggling that has been permitted since the death of Mr. Lincoln. That tragedy is one of the most mysterious in the annals of crime. There is something hidden that we crave to know. What it is we cannot say; but the records of the trial, the continued imprisonment of Mr. Davis, and especially the shuffling of the Government, compel distrust and suspicion. Why has not Booth's diary been published? Why is George N. Sanders not demanded from the British Government, if the Administration really believes he was a partner in the crime of Booth? Why is not Davis either punished or released? And why is not John H. Surratt, against whom, at least, all the evidence we have points unerringly, brought to justice?

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

FOR ADDITIONAL LOCAL ITEMS SEE OUTSIDE PAGES.]

THE BUTCHERY OF MRS. MAGILTON.—The circumstances attending the murder of Mrs. Magilton, as reported in our last issue, are no longer a matter of mystery. An inquest was held yesterday, by Coroner Daniels, and his deputy, Mr. Fletcher. The party accused of the murder was present at the inquest. His name is Geo. W. Winnemore. His father was a high constable of the city, and some branches of the family move in very respectable circles. The accused left home at an early age, ran wild about the city, and finally entered the regular army. He served in Montana, where Indians ravaged the settlements, came home and was discharged.

His discharge is dated but a few weeks ago. He seems to have lived since a vagabond life, spending his money riotously, and when reduced to penury taking refuge in the business of a street huckster. He appears to have been a believer in spiritualism.

At the inquest, yesterday, he appeared to be buoyed up by an artificial stimulus, as also, to the thinking of our reporter, was the husband of the murdered woman. Coroner Daniels and his deputy performed their duty with exceeding tact.

Adam Magilton, the husband of the murdered woman, was the first witness sworn. He reached the bar of the Coroner's office amidst a silence broken only by his sobs. He stated that after dinner he went away from his home to have his spectacles repaired. His wife he left reading the newspaper. An hour afterward he returned, and found the door locked. Then he went round to the other door, when Winnemore came to the front door and opened it, and called the witness into the room where the murdered woman lay. All the explanation the fellow offered was that "some one had butchered her." The witness called a policeman, and gave Winnemore into custody.

The hammer which was used in the murder was produced by the Coroner. Mr. Magilton said that it was his; he had picked it from the floor, near the body of his wife. Beyond the pool of gore at the side, and around the head of the woman, there were no traces of disorder in the room. Her knitting ball lay on the floor. The paper which had fallen from her hands was near the chair in which her husband had last seen her.

Mr. Dwight, who appeared for the commonwealth at the inquest, inquired of the witness whether his wife had any money. He stated that on Thursday morning she told him that she had procured change for a ten dollar bill, receiving two two-dollar bills.

George Parker was then called—He said that he keeps a barber shop in Shippen, near Thirteenth street; he left the shop at twelve o'clock and returned at three; immediately after, Mr. Magilton appeared in the street, calling that his wife was murdered; Winnemore came out of the house, and, stating that he wanted a policeman, accosted Policeman McCullen, who afterwards retained the prisoner.

Mrs. Mary Stewart resides at 1308 Shippen street. Her story was that, sitting at the window opposite Mr. Magilton's house when that gentleman came to the door, she saw him try to open it, and turn from it to the window; she then saw the door open and Winnemore come out and pull Magilton in. She saw the two enter the house, and Magilton run out into the street with a cry which alarmed the neighborhood. Winnemore walked toward Thirteenth street, and returned with a policeman a minute later. Winnemore walked with a firm step from the house.

Mrs. Rebecca Smith stated that, living immediately in the rear of Magilton's house she came to the front and sat upon the steps for nearly an hour previous to the arrival of Mr. Magilton. During the time that she sat there no one passed into the dwelling. When Mr. Magilton came he entered the house, and immediately Winnemore emerged, saying, "Don't be alarmed, Mr. Magilton; I will go for the doctor or coroner, or anybody you want." said the witness, "Who are you?" "Oh! I am a friend of Mr. Magilton's," was the reply.

Cornelius Donahue and a number of others deposed to the same effect.

Robert Buck testified that he lived at the northwest corner of Broad and Shippen. Shortly after dinner, on Thursday, Winnemore came to the premises and asked the time. The witness replied that it was about two o'clock. Then Winnemore walked down Shippen street. The witness did not look at his watch, but about eight or ten minutes later a girl entered on the same errand. Then he looked at the clock and found that it was seventeen minutes after two. An hour later a cry of murder was raised, and the witness going to the door saw Winnemore in the charge of policeman McCullen, and heard that Mrs. Magilton had been murdered.

Nathaniel Nesbit testified that he saw Winnemore go down Shippen street and stop in front of the door; he stood there in the shadow of the doorway for five minutes, when the witness went into his own house, opposite that of Magilton's; in the morning Winnemore stood in the same position for several minutes before entering the house; in the afternoon it was about two o'clock when the prisoner came to the premises.

Martha Dobbins, who lives directly opposite to Mr. Magilton, deposed that she saw Winnemore come to the latter place and stand on the door step; she saw him take the knob in his hand but turning her attention away for a minute, she saw no one there when she again looked; this was a little after two o'clock; an hour later she heard that Mrs. Magilton was murdered, and went and saw the body.

William Selby, a superintendent of street-cleaning under Mr. Contractor Bickley, was sworn. From him the jury learned nothing new; he was in the vicinity of the house when the prisoner came out and accosted the policeman. This he saw.

Senior Policeman McCullen, who was then put upon the stand, testified concerning the arrest, and corroborated the testimony of preceding witnesses upon this point. He stated that he picked the hammer from the floor, and gave it to the detectives

Junior Policeman McCullen, who assisted in the arrest, testified to the same effect. He saw Winnemore walking hurriedly out Shippen street, and brought him to the house At the station the Lieutenant took two two dollar notes, a ten cent note, fifteen pennies and two three cent pieces from Winnemore's pockets. The witness looked for blood upon the prisoner, but found none. Winnemore stated that he had put his hand upon Mrs. Magilton's head when he entered the house, for she was lying on the floor with her throat cut. This he did to see if she was dead, but when he ascertained the fact he washed the stain away. In the yard the policeman said there was a small clot of blood near the hydrant, and two feet from the privy. McCullen also stated that he got a lad to descend the privy; in half a minute the boy found a razor, which he handed the policeman before he ascended from the well; the razor was produced, and the policeman recognized it; it is a straight thin blade, with a long, slender handle, peculiar in construction and readily identified; Mr. McCullen said that there were dark stains on the razor, under the deposit of the cesspool; he did not wash the razor, lest he should remove the stains.

James Gallen, the lad who recovered the razor, was then called—He corroborated Policeman McCullen, Jr.

Lieut. Hampton stated that he was at the station-house when the prisoner was searched; a pocket diary and the money previously described were found; these were all the contents of his pockets; no traces of blood were found upon the body or clothes of Winnemore; the Lieutenant went to the house and found blood tracks in the yard; from the house the Lieutenant went to the boarding-house of Winnemore, and found a valise and various articles of the prisoner's.

Chief Lamon testified that, with Detective Tryon, he went to the scene of the murder, took possession of the razor and hammer, and then visited the boarding-house of Winnemore at Mench's in Front street. The chief found there, a small hand trunk, in which was a case for a razor. To an inquiry of Mr. Lamon's whether he had ever seen Winnemore with a razor, Mench said that he had loaned one to him.

Adam Mench testified that on Saturday last Winnemore came to him, and, finding the witness shaving, said "I have a good razor which I will loan you." Mench said, "Very well." Winnemore then produced the razor, and after the witness had used it he returned it. Mr. Mench declared that the razor in the Coroner's hands was the same instrument. He recognized it readily by the manner in which it was grooved and the peculiar manner in which it was ground down on one side

William Sutcliff, who was present at the house of Mr. Mench when the razor was loaned, corroborated the statement of that witness in regard to the loan of the razor, but could not identify it.

Mr. Mickley, the son-in-law of Mrs Magilton, said that at 4 o'clock in the afternoon preceding the murder, that lady came to his house. He gave her two two-dollar notes, government bills.

The Coroner produced the two notes taken from the prisoner. Mr. Mickley could not swear that they were those given by him to his mother-in-law, although they were the same kind of bills, of the same denomination, and were old notes, such as he gave her. He said that he had folded them several times and put them in a small pocket book. The notes on the Coroner's table were creased several times.

This closed the regular examination of witnesses. The report of the post-mortem examination concluded the inquest. This was significant. Dr. Shapleigh stated that he made a thorough inspection of the body. The throat had been cut. The left hand had been bruised. There were seven contused wounds on the head, all of the same character and produced by the same instrument. Five of them extended to the brain, and of these one was behind the outer angle of the left eye, and two before. One, above the right eye, penetrated the brain, and an inch to the right of that was a similar one. On the top of the head there were three other wounds parallel with and similar to the others.

The hammer was produced, and Dr. Shapleigh said that it was one which he took from the floor of the room, and it caused all the wounds. Its butt fitted each injury.

The wound of the throat extended from the left ear, immediately beneath the mastoid process, to an inch from the ear on the right. It divided the windpipe, the jugular vein and the carotid artery. Either this wound or any of the contusions in the head would have caused death.

This summed up the entire case. The jury returned a verdict, almost without consultation, that the deceased came to her death by the hand of the prisoner. Winnemore was fully committed for trial.

ROBBERY AND MURDEROUS ASSAULT.—On Thursday afternoon an unknown man entered the green grocery at the corner of Maple and Chester streets, while Mrs. Lockney, the proprietress, was in a back room, and stepped to the counter, where he was discovered by Mrs. Lockney attempting to get at the money-drawer. She called to him, upon which he seized a two-pound weight and threw it at her, striking the door very close to her head. He then ran, taking from the drawer, before doing so, about two dollars in currency.

THE COLORED PEOPLE'S REUNION.—Last evening, at National Hall, the Colored People's Union League of this city held a festival, in celebration of the lately accorded right of riding in the street passenger cars. Governor Geary, Senator Sumner, Mayor McMichael, Hon. M. B. Lowry, Miss Anna E. Dickinson, and others, were invited to address the meeting, but were not present, and letters of regret from several of them were presented. The audience was a very respectable though not a large one, while but a small number were white persons. A programme, comprising musical selections, addresses, and recitations, was given, and the entertainment closed after midnight.

THE CORONER was notified yesterday afternoon to hold an inquest on the body of an old man named Daniel McClain, who was found dead in a chair at his residence, No. 309 Belgrade street, Eighteenth Ward.

The body of a man named John Gallagher was found floating in the Delaware yesterday, at South street wharf. He resided in Fourth street, above Gaskill. The Coroner was notified to hold an inquest.

FIRE.—Yesterday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, at No. 323 North Fourth street, the premises took fire and were burnt on the roof. It was occupied by Hardcastle & Co. as a paint shop. The sparks were communicated by a steamer which was playing at York road and Wood street.

RUN OVER.—About 9 o'clock yesterday morning, a little girl aged 2 years, the daughter of Charles Troutman, was run over by a wagon, at Charles and South streets, and seriously injured. She was taken to the residence of her parents, in the immediate vicinity.

NOTE.—We have recently renovated and refitted our establishment, and introduced a vastly increased amount of light by a new process, the effect of which is well worth seeing.

G. S. C. E.

An unusually large and choice stock of Clothing for spring wear is exhibited by the G. S. C. E. at the present time. We have taken much pains in selecting styles, and in the getting up of our garments this season, and are able to offer to our patrons and the public generally an assortment of Walking Coats, Morning and Evening Coats, Sacks, Spring Overcoats, Vests, and Pants of every grade, equal in style, make, and finish to the best customer work, and of course at much lower prices.

For those who prefer to have their clothing made to order, we have a custom department in charge of cutters whose skill and taste are unexcelled, and supplied with an elegant variety of piece goods of all descriptions. We invite an early call. PERRY & Co.,

BECAUSE A PERSON HAS A BAD COUGH it should not be inferred that Consumption has set in, although a case of Consumption is rarely met with unaccompanied by a distressing Cough. Where, however, a predisposition to pulmonary disease exists, a cough, if left to itself, strains and racks the lungs and wastes the general strength, and soon establishes an incurable complaint. In all cases, then, it is the safer plan to get rid of a cough, cold, or hoarseness without delay, and for this purpose no remedy acts more promptly or surely, or with more benefit to the organs of the chest, than Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, an article scientifically compounded from carefully selected drugs, and which, on trial, will always be found worthy of its world-wide reputation. Sold by all Druggists. Prepared only at No. 242 Chesnut street.

WE WELCOME to our columns again our old friend Dr. Humphreys and his Specific Homœopathic Remedies. We have known the Dr. for many years, and know him as a conscientious Christian gentleman and an accomplished physician. We have used his Specifics ourselves, and they are used extensively among our friends, and are free to say that they are all that they claim to be—invaluable Family Medicines. All who have the pleasure of Dr. H.'s acquaintance know that he would offer nothing to the public unless it was fully up to the standard of recommendation.—Buffalo Christian Advocate.

DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.—From the reports of the dealers in this city, we think no proprietary medicine has had a larger sale. Its valuable properties as a speedy cure for pain cannot fail to be generally appreciated, and no family should be without it, in case of accident or sudden attack of dysentery, diarrhœa, cholera-morbus; and even Asiatic cholera yields to its magic power.—Montreal Transcript.

THE JAPANESE AT THE CONTINENTAL.—These illustrious visitors left New York yesterday for Washington, but purposed stopping in our city on their way, as many of them had heard, through the former Embassy, of the Clothing House of Charles Stokes & Co., under the Continental Hotel, and they expressed the wish of appearing before the American Tycoon dressed in the best American style. They showed their usual shrewdness in getting rich clothing at Stokes & Co.'s instead of at other places.

The appointment was made by General Sheridan.

Legislative Reform.

We publish to-day a communication called out by a recent article in these columns upon the subject of legislative corruption. The writer deplores the indiscriminate denunciation of all the members of our legislative bodies as corrupt, and thinks it has a tendency to deter good men from accepting positions in them. There is force in the suggestion. We should be sorry to suppose that all, or even a majority, of the members of any of our State Legislatures are venal men. But the trouble is to discriminate the good from the bad. A few corrupt scoundrels are sufficient to give a bad odor to a whole legislature. Moreover, it is apparent that these reckless and venal members somehow succeed, to a great extent, in controlling legislation. The good men are too quiet, too easy, too well satisfied with simply voting as they believe to be right, and do not take such steps as they ought to take to ferret out and punish the rascalities of the bribed and perjured scoundrels who bring the whole body into disrepute. Neither the press nor the people can stop to draw nice distinctions. We see bad measures pass our legislative bodies; the air is full of rumors of corruption; even good measures and wise laws are said to be obtained, in many instances, only by feeing rapacious "rings;" and under such circumstances the people conclude, and we think pretty correctly, that the Legislature, as a body, is controlled by corrupt influences. If good men would relieve themselves from this indiscriminate odium, they must do something to show where they stand; they must make their influence felt on the side of purity of legislation; they must declare war upon the public thieves and plunderers who disgrace the name and office of legislator. He who stands quietly by and sees public morality outraged, becomes an accomplice in the crime.

This whole matter of legislative reform must be kept before the people until some measures of relief are discovered and applied.

Co-operation Versus Strikes.

One of the speakers at a recent meeting of the carpenters in New York, who have struck for higher wages, expressed regret that when the strike first commenced they had not each contributed a small sum of money to a common fund, and started a co-operative shop. They would thus have saved their labor during the time they had now been lying idle, and would have established a branch of business in which they could realize the entire profits of their labor.

It is wonderful that this plan has not been more frequently acted upon by our mechanical operatives. In many of the trades a comparatively small capital—not a tenth part of the sum often expended in a strike—would suffice to establish a co-operative shop, in which those striking could all find employment, and receive not only wages, but profits also, if any there should be. This plan has been tried in some instances, and has worked with marked success.

Indeed, the entire subject of co-operative industry is well worthy the careful investigation of our mechanical operatives. It affords the best, and perhaps the only practical, solution of many of the problems which now seriously embarrass the relations of capital and labor. That co-operation is in some instances capable of being made wonderfully successful, is shown by some of the English examples. The facilities for introducing that form of industry in this country are much greater than they are in England, and we only wonder that it has not been more frequently tried.

Legality of the Ritualistic Innovations.

We have received a number of letters relative to an article which appeared in The Evening Telegraph last Monday, on the subject of ritualism in the Episcopal Church. As a rule, we are glad to say the writers warmly concur in the views we then expressed, and join with us in deploring the innovations which are being made in the beautiful service prescribed by the Book of Common Prayer. Several of our correspondents, however, think otherwise; and "An Old Subscriber" goes so far as to completely lose his temper. Taking his letter as a type of those who favor the incense and candles, the flowers and solo chants, we will say a few words in reply. Our correspondent, after assuring us that we are "extremely narrow-minded" and "very ill-natured," proceeds to declare "that a secular journal is not the proper medium to discuss these matters through; the religious press can take much better care of that; consequently your efforts to cast odium on St. Mark's, St. Clement's, and St. James the Less will fall to the ground perfectly harmless, and your criticism be of no avail whatever." Passing by the illogical sequence laid down, we would ask why, then, did "An Old Subscriber" saddle us with three foolscap pages of protest, if our "criticisms be of no avail whatever?" But we deny that a secular journal has no right to discuss religious matters. A newspaper ought to speak freely of every subject in which its readers take an interest, and about which they have a right to know. Everything over, on, or under the earth, or in the waters under the earth, falls within the province of daily journalism. The fact that so much attention has been attracted to the objectionable article, and that it has been commended by so many of our readers, is the best proof that it falls within the province of newspaper criticism. Whether a secular journal has or has not the right to treat on such a subject is a question which we have answered for ourselves, and we shall continue to discuss any subject we think our readers take an interest in. So much for our jurisdiction. Our correspondent says:—

"You say, my dear sir, that "these are innovations." We do most positively deny it: for these things were in the Church long, long after the Reformation, and may still be found all through Lutheran Germany. No: sir; they who brought them into disuse are the innovators, not we; we are only bringing the Church back to her palmy days, and trying to awaken her from sluggish indifference and coldness, apathy, and hum-drum."

We do not propose to discuss whether candles and bowings of the head existed after the Reformation or not, or whether or not they still exist in Lutheran Germany. We will even grant that all our correspondent says is so; but what has it to do with the question? What has Lutheran-German customs to do with the Protestant Episcopal Church ritual of the United States? The customs of the Lutherans have no more weight as precedents in the Episcopal service than those of Rome or Judaism. It may be that the founders of the Episcopal Church were innovators, but they laid down certain forms of worship, and certain articles of faith, and formed a Church. Every one who belongs to that Church is bound to follow its creed and rubrics. If they do not, they cease to be Episcopalians. Right or wrong, the worship prescribed in the "Prayer-Book" is the only ritualism truly Episcopalian. The original principles and forms of the English Church have been modified and expounded by the House of Bishops of the United States. Their decisions, in opposition to the innovators, is final, although their consent would not make ritualism legal until a general convention concurred. These bishops have united in a circular, which is signed by twenty-eight out of the forty, and which is assented to by six more who had not time to sign the declaration—so that the Protest of the Bishops is a protest of four-fifths of the House; and what does this protest say?—

"We hold, therefore, that the ceremonies, rites, and worship then (1814) established, ordained, and approved by common authority, as set forth in the Book of Common Prayer of this Church, are the law of the Church, which every pastor, presbyter, and deacon of the same has bound himself, by subscribing to the promise of conformity, in article seventh of the Constitution, to obey, observe, and follow; and that no strange or foreign usages should be introduced or sanctioned by the private judgment of any member or members of the Church, clerical or lay." This ends the whole question. We do not care whether the innovations are beautiful, or whether they are not. Until approved by the Bishops and General Convention they are not lawful, and whoever allows them transgresses the rule of the Church, and deserves to be put under the ban by the Bishop of his diocese. The conclusion is irresistible, and for it the founders of the Episcopal Church are responsible. Poor ignorant, narrow-minded creatures, they did not anticipate the day when candles, and bowing, and chants, and surplices would be essential to heartfelt worship or necessary to salvation!

Unless the innovators cease their endeavors, the Episcopal Church will be rent with division. Already, in at least one of those churches whose performance we commented on last Monday, has a serious division taken place; and if the ritualists really love their Church as they declare, they will keep it a unit by dispensing with the flowers and the surplices, and conform to the faith and practice of their forefathers.

AN UNLOCKED-FOR RETALIATION.—The announcement lately made that the ordinance referring to the running at large of all manner of animals would be rigidly enforced, was productive of much good in the vicinity of Eighth street, above Girard avenue, and a little ill, in an incident which was to the greatest degree risible. The main actors in this drama were a heavy gentleman—no less than a well-known police officer—and a wicked specimen of the order rumantia, genus capra, which a scientific friend describes as a mammal, clothed with long hair, and characterized for its angulated and spiral horns. The scene is laid at the corner of a lot, surrounded by a high fence. It is said that after untold exertion, and puffings loud and sonorous, our rotund friend had cornered his game. All hope of escape for the unlucky ruminant was cut off, for a voluminous body was upright before it, the legs thereof describing, with the earth, a perfect triangle. It is averred that the following was spoken:—"Here, goatee, goatee. Confound that goat! why don't it come?" Now, natural history divulges the fact that under certain circumstances certain animals become sadly demented, and are incited to deeds of darkness. Be that as it may, we chronicle the fact that, hardly had these anxious ejaculations escaped from our friend, when this savage ruminant did arch its back and lower its head, and with a prodigious leap did strike above the apex of the before mentioned triangle, coming into immediate contact with the ample folds of a vest surrounding a massive form, which gave way with a sudden semi-tragic "Whoo!—ugh!—blast him!" and sank as if it were no more. We consider it as a settled fact that running down and cornering goats is far from being agreeable to those with prominent abdomen under like circumstances.

A "DRY" CASE.—Frederick Dry has been employed for the past four months in the furniture store of Mr. Dickinson, No. 238 South Second street. It came within his province to attend to the clothing of the store. Last night he closed the establishment at the usual hour, and departed. About 7 o'clock last evening an attaché to an adjoining store saw some person come out of Mr. Dickinson's store, through the rear door, carrying a large bundle of cloth. As this individual looked up, and found himself the object of close observation, he faced about, passed back into the store, slammed to and locked the door. This was a somewhat singular transaction, and so thought the observer. He stepped out, and gave information to Officers Carney and Pearson, of the Third District. These gentlemen tried all the doors of the building, and found them secure. So by the aid of a plank they reached a second-story window and got in. Zealous search was made of all the departments of the building, which finally resulted in the finding of Mr. Frederick Dry, sleeping, apparently, in a not very comfortable attitude, in a large box placed in one corner of the cellar. A further search revealed large strips of velvet plush, ready cut from huge rolls, and of the exact size to cover a lounge. These were gathered in a bundle, amounting in value to about $100. Mr. Dry was taken into custody, and was committed this morning by Alderman Butler in default of $1500 bail.

THE DEPARTURE OF COLONEL JOHN W. FORNEY, Secretary of the United States Senate, for Europe, in search of relaxation from the cares of official and journalistic labors, was the occasion, yesterday, of a pleasant gathering at the Washington House, in this city. The affair assumed the form of a complimentary breakfast tendered the proprietor of the Press by the editorial and business employes of the establishment. The party sat down at half-past twelve o'clock, with Daniel Dougherty, Esq., as the "favored guest." The discussion of the dishes was varied by remarks from Mr. Dougherty; Mr. Charles Godfrey Leland, the present managing editor of the Press; Mr. Luther Ringwalt, of the editorial staff; Mr. Charles C. Wilson, chief of the city department; and Mr. Charles McClintock, the business manager. To these Colonel Forney responded in a happy manner, and after the exchange of farewell greetings, the party separated.

About midnight, Colonel Forney was tendered a further farewell demonstration at his residence. He was then waited upon by committees of the colored people of the city and of the Colored Union League, the latter leaving their festivities at National Hall for the express purpose. The party were accompanied by two excellent bands of music, which drew together a large concourse of people.

An appropriate acknowledgment was made by Colonel Forney, after which the crowd dispersed.

OF IMPORTANCE TO DEALERS IN TIN-PLATE AND METALS.—In the year 1810, the N. & G. Taylor Company established in this city the business, which is still carried on at Nos. 303 and 305 Branch street. Their specialty is the importation of tin-plate, metals of all kinds, and kindred articles for the use of the trade. Indeed, all workers and dealers in metals, to any extent whatever, will find at this establishment facilities for meeting and supplying every want that can arise in their business. The stock of tin-plate, in particular, is large and complete, embracing, as it does, all sizes and qualities of this commodity. In addition to this, they have on hand a rare assortment of sheet-iron of every manufacture, as well as of other forms of iron and steel, and all the other merchantable metals, in sheet and other forms. Tools, machinery, and trimmings of all kinds, are embraced in another portion of the stock in equal variety and desirability.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARIES.—The office of Ellis & Botts, stock brokers, No. 305 Walnut street, was entered last night by burglars, who gained access thereto by forcing off a back window-shutter. They received nothing for their exertions in this office; but it is believed that their object in entering this office was to reach the fire-proof safe belonging to Mr. Petrie's establishment, which projected into Ellis & Botts' office. They failed to realize any financial expectations.

An entrance was attempted to Bennet's grocery store, at Seventeenth and Callowhill streets, last evening. One of the window-shutters was perforated well but the fastenings were not reached, and consequently access thereby could not be had.

A COMPLIMENTARY FAREWELL CONCERT TO MR. A. BURRIS has been tendered by the members of the Delmonico Cornet Band, and will take place at the Liberty Hall, Lombard street, below Eighth, on Monday evening of next week. The programme presents an attractive variety of piano and vocal solos, intermingled with the performance of choice selections by the Band. Mr. Burris has occupied a prominent position among the colored people of this city for fifteen years past, having been particularly popular as a musician; and now that he is about to leave for foreign lands, this complimentary tribute on the part of his friends and the general public is eminently proper, and none the less deserved.

STEALING RAILROAD IRON.—James Miller, aged fifteen, has been engaged at various times in stealing railroad iron from the North Pennsylvania Railroad. His last transaction was on the 8th of March last, since which time, being informed that by remaining aloof he would promote his personal safety, he has kept dark. Yesterday the boy and William McManus, a man who knowingly received the goods, were arrested. The former was committed by Alderman Neil in default of $300 and the latter in $500 to answer.

DEFRAUDING THE GOVERNMENT.—Word was sent on from Washington to this city, in the shape of a warrant, that one John Wilson, late of Rhold Hingland," but at present without any fixed home, had defrauded the United States Government of the sum of $300, and Mr. W. H. [illegible] of $200. Detective Smith received the [illegible] and Officer Taggart, of the First District, [illegible] the arrest at the Broad and Prime [illegible]pot. The offender was locked up to [illegible]eturn to Washington.

[illegible]ATING is one of the most common [illegible] in those communities where light- [illegible]ons which can elevate are retailed, [illegible]ndulges to extremes when he does [illegible]: when he drinks he is sure to get [illegible]en he quarrels with his wife, and [illegible]e result. All this he did yester- [illegible]residence, Third and Thompson [illegible]erman Neil committed him in [illegible] bail to answer.

[illegible]he last car on the Second and [illegible]oad was entering the depot last [illegible]er discovered a fire in the stable. [illegible]ld be obtained, the straw in one [illegible]ave good headway to the flames, [illegible]estroyed two horses, which were [illegible]all. The fire was, with difficulty, [illegible], and the damage, not including [illegible] horses, is trifling.

A VISIT TO THE NAVY YARD.—The arrival of several war steamers within the past fortnight has restored to our Navy Yard, which was almost deserted during the winter, a portion of its wonted activity, and added a great deal to that which usually interests visitors. Yesterday we made one of our periodical calls on the gallant knights of the "eagle and anchor," and found them as gentlemanly and hospitable as ever. The Yard is rapidly assuming its summer costume. The long and once beautiful line of trees on the main avenue which leads to the river, is beginning to exhibit signs of old age and impaired usefulness, but those around the officers' quarters and barracks are putting forth vigorously, and will be "able for duty" long after League Island will be ready to relieve them. The grass, which some tasteful hand has thickly interspersed with violets, is ankle-deep already, and each day adds a line to the obituary of another season of "hay butter."

In the main office building, near the gate, we found two important Boards in session, one for the examination of regular line officers entitled to promotion, and the other for the investigation of the cases of officers of all grades who may be disabled or injured by reason of wounds, sickness, etc., so much as to be unfit for duty. Commodore J. B. Hull is President of each of these, and is assisted by Commodores McKinstry and Marchand, and Surgeons Rushenberger and Dillard. On the opposite side is a Court of Inquiry, which convened on Tuesday last by order of the Navy Department, to ascertain the truth of certain charges contained in a report made by a number of the crew of the Florida against their officers, charging them with infractions of discipline, illegal manipulation of bounty money, etc. These allegations are very serious, and it is hoped by all interested that they may not be sustained by evidence. Commodore J. P. Gillis, Captain Curtin, and Paymaster Pettit constitute the Court.

Passing down the shipyard we reach the shiphouses, and find them both occupied by immense ships. On the north, the Antietam, about half-finished, and on the south the Pushmataha, nearly ready for the water. She is a beautiful craft, with the model and lines of a pleasure yacht, and will probably be ready for the christening hand of some beautiful young lady by June. The Cattanooga, which attracted so much attention and so many visitors last year, lies moored to the wharf under the shears. There seemed to be only fewjwatchmen and workmen aboard, who were making alterations in the machinery under the direction of the Southwark Foundry. The double-ender Mingo is alongside of her, and the famous iron-clad Passaic is on the sectional dry dock, to be scraped and repainted to preserve her from rust. The old "snub-nosed" sloop St. Louis has been transformed, under the direction of Commodore Gleason, into a respectable floating domicile for the officers attached to the iron-clad fleet, and was towed to League Island on Tuesday, and moored near the spot where the New Ironsides was burned.

The receiving ship Constellation, the Florida and Mackinaw, are lying at anchor in the stream. The two latter have recently returned from cruises in the West Indies, and will either be condemned and sold, or laid up for the present. The Florida was put out of commission and the flag hauled down while we were in the yard, and the latter, it is expected, will be disposed of in the same way.

The social character and good nature of the sailor is particularly shown in his fondness for pets; and if the number of monkeys, parrots, and other West India products aboard these two men-of-war be a fair index, we should say they were happy ships, in spite of the report of the Florida's men. We learn of the following personal changes:—On Wednesday a detachment of twenty-two sailors was sent to Norfolk, Virginia, in charge of Commander Haines, and six marine sergeants and corporals. Commodore Turner has relieved Rear-Admiral Hoff in charge of ordnance. Commander Shick, it is said, will be one of Admiral Farragut's officers on the Franklin. Captain Corbin will command the Guerriere, flagship of the Brazil Squadron, now called the South Atlantic, to be commanded by the accomplished Admiral C. H. Davis. Lieutenant R. P. Neill, United States Marine Corps, a Philadelphian, has also been ordered to the Guerriere. As our contemporaries have failed to notice the fact, we will mention that on the 13th inst. the city and navy yard were honored with a visit from Admiral de la Roncière le Noury, commanding the French squadron in North America, and two of his staff, M. Vigries and M. de la Tour du Lis. They were received by the Naval Commandant, T. O. Selfridge, U. S. N., and a detachment of his officers, with the usual honors from the Marine garrison, and escorted to League Island.

THE FESTIVAL OF THE COLORED UNION LEAGUE, at National Hall, last evening, was in every sense of the word a success. The company present was very large, and all seemed bent upon enjoying themselves to the utmost, by way of rejoicing over the rapid strides which the colored people of the country are making towards securing in its fullest extent that justice at the hands of the Government which has been so long denied them. The entertainment consisted of music, and speech-making; and in each portion of the programme there was an earnest endeavor to surpass. The music was of a decidedly artistic order, and the addresses were listened to throughout with the greatest attention.

Mr. John C. Bowers, the President of the League under whose auspices the entertainment was given, made some remarks at the opening of the ceremonies concerning the operations of the institution. The regular report was then read by Lieutenant A. M. Green, after which Mr. Brown delivered an address on "Universal Suffrage." Mr. Kerns, of the State Legislature, and several other gentlemen, likewise addressed the assemblage.

The first morceau on the musical programme was the Bolero, from the "Sicilian Vespers," which was sung by Madame Brown with fine effect. Then came a duett from Lucia, rendered by Messrs T. J. Bowers and I. D. Cliff, the former of whom is well-known to the public as "the colored Mario." Mr. Bowers fully sustained his high reputation on the occasion, and Mr. Cliff acquitted himself with great credit in the duett, as well as in the subsequent solo of "Sleep, Gentle Sleep." Then Mr. Bowers rendered the ever-popular "Good-by, Sweetheart," in exquisite style; and the musical portion of the programme was closed with the "Laughing Trio." Through the kindness of Mr. J. C. Bowers, the President of the League, the Delmonico Band, which was in attendance, was permitted to leave the hall, when they proceeded to the residence of Colonel John W. Forney, and tendered that gentleman a complimentary serenade, in acknowledgment of his services in behalf of the colored people of the entire country.

HEARINGS BEFORE THE UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS.—Before Commissioner Phillips, this morning, Leonard Jones, a landsman stationed at League Island, was charged with the larceny of arsenal shirts, pairs of drawers, etc., from the gunboat Napa. He was held in $500 bail to answer.

Joseph Malatesta was charged before Commissioner Sergeant with selling liquor without a United States license. He was held in $500 bail for a further hearing.

Roger Harold was charged with removing whisky to a place other than a bonded warehouse. He was bound over in the sum of $1000 to answer.

Michael Shurn was charged with selling liquor without a license, and without paying the special tax.

The case was postponed until Tuesday.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS OF THE CITY GAS TRUST COMPANY.—At a stated meeting of the Board of the City Gas Trust Company, held last evening, the following named persons were elected to serve for the ensuing year:—Joseph Manuel, Chief Engineer; Cashier, Benjamin S. Riley; Registrar, Samuel M. White; Superintendent of distribution and lighting, John Miskey; Chief Engineer's Clerk, Thomas R. Brown; first assistant, Abraham Myers; second assistant, William Park; Chief Clerk of Seventh Street Office, Quintis Brown.

OWNERS WANTED.—Mary Davis was yesterday afternoon arrested on Market street, below Thirty-seventh, having in her possession a new wash-board and a gentleman's coat. It is alleged she stole them, and for said alleged theft she stands committed by Alderman Allen. The coat and other articles await owners at the Twenty-fourth Ward Station, Lieutenant Tolbert.

BRIDGET IN TROUBLE.—Bridget Ford, aged forty-five, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Charles Matthews, at Seventeenth and Callowhill, for stealing a quantity of clothing from Miss Ann Primrose, who resides at No. 1320 Spring Garden street. Alderman Massey committed her in default of $800 bail.

SHOOTING.—Peter Ehrenberg and James Baker were arrested yesterday at Fourth and Shippen, on a charge of complicity in a serious shooting affair which came off in that vicinity a short time ago. Alderman Tittermary committed each to answer at a further investigation.

CAN'T HELP STEALING.—Detective Reeder caught and arrested Mrs. Mary Mason, aged sixty, for stealing five potatoes, two specked apples, one ancient lemon, and a hoop skirt from stores in South street, below Fourth. She has property, and could live comfortably without such petty operations. When asked why she did not keep straight and live respectable, she replied that she could not—"Can't keep my hands off the things." Alderman Hurley committed her, to where the objects surrounding cannot cause any thieving infatuation or longing desires.

THE GREAT TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT OF WILLIAM H. TAYLOR & CO., No. 132 S. FOURTH STREET.—The attention of the public who are in want of good and substantial wearing apparel, should always be called to those establishments which stand pre-eminent in every community for the merit of their work. Such a place is the "Emporium" of Messrs. Taylor & Co. They invariably meet and satisfy the desires of all who call. All the various styles of gentlemen's goods, all the elegant designs, and all the various patterns, in keeping with the times, can be ever found at this establishment. Is a coat wished which will set without a wrinkle, which will not at once envelope a man to his ears, pinch between the shoulders, or its skirts present the form of a spread umbrella, go to Taylor's, and rest assured the coat is found. Are pantaloons needed that will not at first trial develope the logs of a man's boots, but will set smooth and slick, go to Taylor's. All manner of goods, neat, substantial, fitted to suit the most fastidious tastes, elegantly made, tastefully matched, satisfactory in every thing, price included, are kept at Taylor's, No. 132 S. Fourth street.

FOR THE WARM WEATHER.—Now that the warm weather is rapidly approaching, ice water is becoming more than ever an absolute necessity, and those who wish to have it in perfection, with the advantage of a very small consumption of ice, should purchase one of the elegant Silver-Plated Ice Pitchers manufactured at the old and well-known establishment northeast corner of Ninth and Chesnut streets. Over one hundred new and beautiful designs in ice pitchers are offered at prices which, considering the amount of silver and pure metal used and the superiority of the workmanship, is very low. All of the members of the old firm of John O. Mead & Sons are to be found here, and the goods are manufacted under their immediate supervision. Skilled workmen and accomplished artists are constantly employed in producing novel and exquisite patterns, and whether customers wish ice pitchers or other articles of silver plated ware, they can rely upon procuring them here of the best quality. The goods made at this establishment are fully equal to the far-famed Sheffield ware in finish, beauty, and durability.

THE EMPEROR NAPOLEON pays a flattering tribute to Dr. Colton.

We understand that the Emperor of France has granted to Dr. Colton the exclusive right to use the Laughing Gas as an anesthetic agent in the Empire.

This is not only a merited tribute to the zeal and energy displayed by him in introducing it to the dental profession, but will also be a great source of pecuniary advantage to him.

Having administered the gas to upwards of 40,000 persons, in his various offices in this country, for the extraction of teeth, without any unpleasant results in a single case, the Doctor has proved it to be an invaluable agent for the relief of suffering humanity. He has demonstrated that the most delicate persons, even those in the last stages of consumption, can inhale the pure gas with perfect safety.

THE ELLIPTIC AND THE WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINES are the only ones to which Henry's patent corder and stitcher can be applied. It is for sale at the warerooms of the Elliptic, No. 930 Arch street, the only place in the city where it can be obtained. All those engaged in manufacturing garments in which cording is a part, would do well to call and examine into the merits of this truly wonderful time saver. The Elliptic is now acknowledged as one of the best family machines in existence, and is daily growing more into favor. It is now owned and manufactured by one of the largest and best sewing machine companies in the United States—the Wheeler and Wilson Manufacturing Company—which has recently invested over a hundred thousand dollars in improved machinery for its manufacture.

SOUTHERN AND SOUTHWESTERN FREIGHTS.—The attention of our merchants is especially directed to the card of the Virginia and Tennessee Air Line Railroad Company, on the fifth page. They have made arrangements for shipping goods through to all the commercial cities in the South, from the depot of the Philadelphia, Wilmington, and Baltimore Railroad Company, Broad and Cherry streets. C. E. Dilkes, Esq., No. 411 Chesnut street, is the Agent, and will furnish all the information and facilities required to insure the safe delivery of goods by this route. The damages resulting from the recent floods have been repaired, and freights are going forward regularly, as usual.

THE QUESTION OF WAR.

Paris Journals Looking for Peace.

Prussia Fully Prepared.

Another Muddle in Rome.

The Population Invited to Rise Against the Pope.

Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc., Etc.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The steamship America, from Southampton, has arrived here.

The Paris journals assure the public that there will be no war about Luxembourg, as a peaceful solution of the difficulty was about to be found. The Standard says it was not to be effected by the neutralization of the Grand Duchy, as such a proposition would not be accepted on either side of the Rhine.

On the other hand, foreign correspondents of the London journals say, that although the war may be averted for the moment, it is certain to come. It is said Bismark is anxious for peace, and that Count Moltke prefers immediate war, as Prussia is quite prepared, and has three chances to one over France. In case of postponement, France will be made ready, when the chances would be reversed.

The Paris Constitutionnel says shat no ultimatum has been sent to Prussia.

It is rumored that Russia and Prussia are negotiating for the transfer to Prussia of all Poland to the Vistula. In the Bohemian Diet ninety of the members formally protested against the irregularities with which, as they declared, the present elections were attended, and, throwing up their posts as Deputies, quitted the Chamber.

A proclamation has been published in Rome, calling upon the population to rise against the Papal Government, and promising the support of Garibaldi.

Omar Pacha had left Constantinople for Crete, with 1500 picked men and two frigates, determined to strike a decisive blow at the insurrection.

Another telegram says the Greek steamer Arcadia had made her third successful voyage to Candia, and had landed provisions and munitions of war, and clothing for the insurgents.

The National Assembly has proclaimed religious toleration, the equal rights of Turks and Christians, and security for the property of both.

PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.

A GREAT REMEDY FOR THE CURE OF THROAT AND LUNG DISEASES.

PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL.

It is the vital principle of the Pine Tree obtained by a peculiar process in the distillation of the tar, by which its highest medical properties are retained.

It is the only safe and reliable remedy which has ever been prepared from the juice of the Pine Tree.

It invigorates the digestive organs and restores the appetite.

It strengthens the debilitated system.

It purifies and enriches the blood, and expels from the system the corruption which scrofula breeds on the lungs.

It is the result of years of study and experiment, and it is offered to the afflicted with the positive assurance of its power to cure, if the patient has not too long delayed a resort to the means of cure.

CAUTION.

Whereas, Base and designing men, regardless of the lives of the sick, and with a view solely to their own pockets, are making and vending a spurious article worse than useless—representing it as my Pine Tree Cordial, copying, in some cases, my labels and bottles, with slight variation to protect them from the law, the subscriber has been induced as a protection to the public, to punish a fac-simile of his bottles as last patented by the United States Government; and hereby cautions all persons who value their health and life against purchasing any of the many preparations offered for sale as Tar Cordial, unless my name and a Pine Tree is blown on the bottle; all others being a wicked imposition to deceive the suffering and fleece them of their money, regardless of consequences.

The genuine Pine Tree Tar Cordial is made by a process and of ingredients known only to myself, which secret has never been divulged; and any and all persons claiming to make my Pine Tree Tar Cordial are but vile impostors.

NUMBER CXVII.

A DIET FOR MENTAL DYSPEPTICS, AND A CURE FOR HY-POCHONDRIA, HY-POCRISY, OR ANY COMPLAINT OF A HY ORDER.

BY OUR SERIES EDITOR.

ALMANAC AND DIARY.

SHORT METRE-ILLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS FOR THE WEAK.

April.

Monday, 22.—Senator Wilson addresses the Woolly Heads at Richmond. They turn out quite strong, and declare the only Massa they acknowledge is Massa-chusetts.

Tuesday, 23.—Jeff. Davis takes lessons in drawing and painting at Fortress Monroe. He expects soon to be able to draw a full house.

Wednesday, 24.—Maximilian in Queretaro begging for quarters. It is expected that before he ge.s them he will be glad to take pennies.

Thursday, 25.—Meeting of City Councils. They request the Mayor to take proper measures to put down the use of liquor on Sundays. The Mayor wished to know if pint measures would be the proper things for the purpose.

Friday, 26.—Independent Order of Odd Fellows go to church, and although the cars ran, they all preferred walking, but showed their sense by taking churches near at hand.

Saturday, 27.—SERIES COLUMN DAY. The Editor having attended the Japanese on their way to Washington in the cars, found no evil effects from riding with these colored people that distance.

"A HORSE! A HORSE!"

In Paris, where, according to Tom Hood,

"They call their mothers mares,
And all their daughters filleys," horse-flesh has grown into so much favor as an article of food, that there are no less than fifteen butcher-shops for its exclusive sale. Four restaurants also offer the new "viande" as the distinguishing feature of their carte.

This is a new and exalted position for the horse to occupy. It opens to his view a future glorious in the prospective! The horse will no longer be placed before the cart, but both carte and horse will be placed before the guests of mine host. This may be justly termed an Inn ovation in French hostelry. The French are the authors of the proverb, "It is nobody's business what another body eats." They have less compunction of stomach than the ostrich, and more ways of squelching it—by gravies and condiments. Everything is meat that comes to their larder. No doubt horse-flesh will soon become a stable article of diet, and be sold at a galloping rate. It is meet that it should. At such a time we shall expect to observe a radical change in hotel nomenclature. The great dining-hall will then be known as the Salle à Manger. Guests with choice bits in their mouths will go over the various courses in a style which the coursers themselves scarcely rivalled in their palmiest days, before they were converted into ragouts and mince-meat. Racy viands will be served up as the souvenirs of antiquated racers; the distilled spirit of the draught-horse will go round in a de-canter, and many a stirrup-cup will win praise from connoisseurs. Some such bill of fare as the following will then be found upon first-class tables:—

SOUPS.

Horse-tail.
Snaffle, after mile heats.

ROAST, FRIED, ETC.

Roast Saddle.
Mustang, curried.
Fried Withers, unstrung.
Sliced Thorough-bred, Pony Sauce.

ENTREES.

Colt's Head, on a Charger.
Stallion Hash.
Fillet-au-Filley, garnished with Fetlocks.

PASTRY.

Blood-Pudding, from best blood-horses.
Sliced Pie-balds.
Whip Syllabub.

DESSERT.

Arabian.

But we need not anticipate the future by any further speculations. It is sufficient to say that the new system of diet has now been fully in-stall-ed in France under the most favorable horse-pices. Hereafter the cooks will be the most favored chevaliers among that gallant people. Doubtless the innovation will extend to this country, and be adopted by those whose habit it is to mimic foreign fashions. If so, we shall not be surprised to see them next make of asses themselves, and turn cannibals.

OUR JAPANESE VISITORS.

On the arrival of the Japanese Embassy in New York, on their way to visit the Great American Tycoon at Washington, they stopped at the Metropolitan, where the No-Kamis and Tommy, under the superintendence of Alderman Boole, stopped on a former occasion, some years ago. This time, by the request of the Messrs. Leland, we were asked to come on and accompany the illustrious visitors around that city, to act as their confidential friend and guide, to visé all their bills (except their hotel bills), and to keep them from the professional "Confidentials" who are so anxious to make the acquaintance of strangers, particularly those who use only gold, as is the case with my friends from Japan.

On the first day four of us, First Commissioner Ung-Onionsett, the Second Commissioner Fat-Tom-Mato, the Interpreter Rootah-Ba-Gah, and the Series Editor, started out to visit, of course, the Central Park. After waiting on Sixth avenue some time for a car to come along with the sign on it, "COLORED PERSONS ARE ALLOWED TO RIDE IN THIS CAR," I and my burnt-umber friends got in, and, most unexpectedly, the Conductor went to some trouble to give my Copperhead friends seats. The reason I learned afterwards—the Conductor himself was both a foreigner and a Copperhead.

On arriving at the Park, Ung-Onionsett walked towards the policeman to pay an entrance fee. I immediately stopped him, telling him I would settle that, and they could with me. I made similar arrangements in reference to crossing all of the bridges in the Park. Going through the walks, Rootah Ba-Gah would insist on taking all the direction boards for praying machines, and I had the greatest difficulty in preventing the whole Embassy from falling down before a little rustic seat in the Ramble, on which was sitting a young man with an opera-glass eyeing some ladies in the distance. They mistook it for a sacred shrine with its idol, of the place. I assured them it was an idle image, but that New York abounded with them, and that nobody worshipped them but silly girls. After viewing other interesting objects in the Park, we returned to our hotel. When we arrived there we found that some of the Embassy had been to the Auction stores down Broadway, and had purchased some half-a-dozen watches apiece, and Sum-Punk-Kin, the Treasurer, had bought a bottle of Spalding's Liquid Glue, which he supposed was to dress his hair, and with that belief he saturated his pig-tail to its utmost capacity, when, on retiring to rest for the night, it was found that the supposed hair oil, being glue, had "set," as the cabinet-makers say; and he not being a hen, could neither set nor lay in any comfortable posture, and going to sleep with this arrangement was for the glue was good, and, like the American Tycoon, would stick to its point, and refuse to bend even to the heads of Japan.

THE PRESIDING DEITY

THE BEST THAT HE COULD DO;

Next day they bid

to their host, and left for Washington. On the ferryboat a little boy tried to sell the celebrated Japanese puzzle, which consisted of two pieces of wire linked together, and which was a greater curiosity to the Japs than to anybody else. When the boat reached the slip at Jersey City, most of the passengers of course ran and jumped over the chains before it landed. My friends, who were all practical gymnasts in their own country, seeing the natives thus act, began to leave the boat as showing greater proficiency in acrobatic attainments than that possessed by a majority of the passengers. I explained to Fat-Tom-Mato afterwards that the hurry in getting off the boat was not to show their gymnastic abilities, but it was merely a custom, originating in the fact that most of those who practised this speedy way of doing were hungry shop-keepers, anxious to get home to their supper. Now and then one of them was drowned or had his head mashed, but as a general thing the feat was performed with safety. Ung-Onionsett thought a spring-board on the end of the boat would be an improvement, as the experienced traveller could then leave the boat with a double somersault.

After getting seated in the cars, the various small peddlers began coming through. The "Maple Candy Man" brought his box around, when each of the Embassy took a piece of candy and put it in his mouth; but when the candy man signified to Rootah-Ba-Gah that he wanted money, it was with the greatest effort I prevented the whole Royal Japanese Commission from performing the ari-kari on the spot, and ripping up themselves in a first-class manner in a first-class railroad car, so mortified were they at eating up by mistake the man's samples. I magnanimously paid the whole bill, forty-five cents, and thus saved nine valuable Japanese lives, else they might have ripped themselves up and brought to light the object of this visit, which the newspapers say is now locked up in their bosoms.

Along the whole route the illustrious visitors were loaded down with ham sandwitches, vegetable ivory, and budgets of Fun. Of the specimens of American pictorial literature, Ung-Onionsett bought a copy of everything that had a portrait in it of the American Tycoon in any shape.

It was not long before the whole company got asleep, with the exception of Sum-Punk-Kin, who could not sleep on account of his glued pig-tail. I left them at Philadelphia to pursue their own way to the Tycoon of the White House, and to Mr. Seward, that other "coon," whom to see at an advantage one must be wide awake. Sum-Punk-Kin bade me good-bye, but neither his queue nor his wrath at Mr. Spalding, the inventor of the glue, had yet softened, but it is hoped that time will mellow both.

LEGISLATIVE CORRUPTION.

THE EVIL OF INDISCRIMINATE DENUNCIATION.

To the Editor of The Evening Telegraph:—

I read with considerable pleasure your editorial relative to legislative corruption and venality, that are so unblushingly displayed in the General Assembly of this State, as well as in the State of New York. The public mind has for years brooded over, sullenly and silently, this monstrous evil and wrong, without the power to apply a remedy. The political machinery of parties, both Republican and Democratic, has been securely seized by the lowest order of intelligence and honesty in all our cities and larger towns; and the result is, like has produced like, and we have been represented these latter years in our Legislatures by elections unfit to be made. I am not very young, neither am I very old, and I cannot tell how far back in our history commenced the system of bribery and corruption in our public bodies which we so much deplore, and which seems to be breaking up the very foundations of our free institutions. The first great sale of political and personal integrity which took very decided shape in Pennsylvania, was that connected with the recharter of the old United States Bank, as a State institution. From that time down to the present the public ear has grown more and more familiar with such transactions, and we now cease to marvel at any fraud or any wrong that those whom we choose to mis-represent us may see fit to perpetrate. The time was when our best citizens were chosen to be our law-givers—men of integrity, or probity, of intellectual culture, and of social and moral worth.

In the earlier days of the Republic we heard of no betrayal of the people's interests, no violence done to the honor and dignity of the legislative character, when the Sergeants, the Tolands, the Biddles, the Dallases, the Penroses, and a host of others of like character were selected to do the business pertaining to the government of the State.

But as your editorial, to which I allude, implies, almost the entire foreground of our representation has been changed. From the best of men as Representatives, we have fallen down to a class that no man who respects himself cares to associate with in public, and certainly not in private life; and we now seek to correct the evil. It is easier to talk about a remedy than to apply one. The present system of party selection is a cheat and a fraud; and yet how can we escape it?

The candidate who can secure with rum and money the "roughs," usually secures the nomination, and no matter how many votes an honorable and honest opponent may poll at the window of a primary party nominating contest, unless he has the inside judge and inspectors he will be declared in the minority. There is no redress for the wrong, and the fraud is so obvious, that high-minded and competent men care not to enter the arena where rum has more influence to control than purity of character and intellectual qualifications. The evil to be dreaded in defeating such unfair nominations on election day, you very fairly present. So for the public good we submit to the private wrong.

But, Mr. Editor, there is another side to this picture—a feature of blame which attaches itself to the press, and also to the community. We have become so accustomed to the cry of "mad dog," that we make an indiscriminate accusation of corruption against every one of our legislators. I am not prepared to judge thus harshly of all who go to Harrisburg or Albany. I believe that many of them are honest and conscientious men—men who go and come untainted by corrupting influences. It does not require that the whole of a Legislature should be bought, to pass unjust and partial laws. Twenty bad and corrupt men—having talent and recklessness—can easily control the balancing power of one hundred men. I can speak from some little experience in this matter. Therefore, when the press and the community denounce all as venal who assume the character of legislators, a serious wrong is perpetrated. And it has this bad effect—it deters men of ability, honesty, and integrity from desiring to fill such positions, or allow their names to be used in connection therewith. This is the point I wish to make in this article:—As long as this indiscriminate hue and cry is continued against all who go to Harrisburg, only bad men will seek to go there, and only bad men will be successful in their seeking. Justice requires that we should discriminate in our denunciations as well as in our praise. E. G. W.
